Reject Petition To Change Shawsheen Zoning Laws

Six members of the Andover draft board, No. 62, were announced Wednesday as having been named to that position of honor by the President of the United States.

They are: Thomas M. Fallon, 58 Maple ave., Joseph A. Horan, 6 Avon st., Atty. Walter E. Mondale, 49 Summer st., all of Andover, Samuel F. Rockwell, 676 Os-good st., and Martin J. 65 Favor Article - 47 Oppose Two-Thirds Vote Necessary At Special Meeting

A petition to change the zoning laws to permit an extension of the Shawsheen square business district was defeated in Andover's special town meeting on Monday night due to the lack of a two-thirds majority required on such articles. Sixty-five voters favored the petition and 47 were opposed.

One hundred and twelve voters, however, by unanimous voice vote balloted to appropriate $10,000 to purchase or acquire land on Chestnut and Morton streets, adjacent to the Central schools and playground, and to accept an extension of Lincoln circle from its present terminus for a distance of 300 feet.

The special meeting which got underway at 7.30 p. m. was adjourned shortly after 8.30 p. m. Atty. Arthur Sweeney served as town moderator, George H. Winslow, town clerk, read the articles in the warrant. The opening prayer was given by Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of the South church, and the salute to the flag was led by Selectman J. Everett Collins.

The first article in the warrant requested a change in the zoning by-laws to extend the business district in Shawsheen square to the west side of Poor st., so as to include land and buildings owned by Esther Bredbury, on petition of Esther Bredbury and others.

Atty. Vincent S. Stulgis, spoke in behalf of the petitioners. He explained that the petitioner has conducted a bakery at the present site since early in the 1930's, before the zoning restrictions were placed into effect and the area is now considered a non-conforming use.

Explains Petition

Atty. Stulgis explained that the present owner has a prospective purchaser who desires to operate a soda fountain there as well as a bakery and general store. He said the purchaser plans to enlarge the premises and will provide a private parking area. He said that such a business establishment is a necessity to the Shawsheen area owing to the fact that the "Spa" has gone out of business. He read a letter from C. P.

Historic Andover, which helped so much in the creation of this free nation by offering her sons on the altar of freedom in 1776, will not keep alive that famed spirit by officially recognizing Independence Day with any civic demonstration on July 4, 1951.

Red, white and blue citizens of this tradition-rich town will find occasion to go elsewhere to the nearby towns of North Andover and Methuen or to the city of Lawrence to satiate their thirst for patriotic demonstration.

Many are the residents here who find it inconceivable that such a national holiday will pass unmarked. They hold that especially in these times when the bulwarks of Americanism are so viciously attacked that there is every need for real Americans to come forth and show their colors.

Some interpret this official indifference as a sign of weakness, which might well be the greatest menace facing the United States today. Others were heard quoting

Stickers For Civil Defense Are Here

Emergency automobile stickers for members of the Andover auxiliary police of the state civil defense agency have been received by Albert Cole Jr., director.

Mr. Cole said that these members may have the stickers by applying at the civil defense office in the town hall.

He explained that in the event of an attack in this area, all main highways will be closed to all traffic except the military and civil defense vehicles. These stickers will permit cars displaying them to use the roads. More than 60 stickers have been received at this date.

He advised all members of the civil defense, who have not yet submitted registration numbers of their cars to do so at once in order that they might have the proper identification.

John M. Erving Jr., 59 Salem st., stricken with infantile paralysis, last Sept., was released from the Children's hospital in Boston, June 8, and has joined his wife, the former Ruth Anderson, and his three-year old daughter, Pamela, at the family residence here.

With nine months of hospitalization behind him, the spirit of this man, who walked close to death, is undaunted and he has set his sights on suitable employment to provide for his young family.

On Sept. 15, 1950, he was rushed to the Lowell General hospital for observation where it was determined he suffered from polio. Within hours he was on his way to the Haynes Memorial hospital in Boston where he was admitted and placed on the danger list. For the next four months he was treated at the Haynes hospital and in the later days of Jan. he was transferred to the Lawrence General hospital, where he stayed until early March. He was given treatment at the Children's hospital in Boston through June 8, when he Andover's crusade against speedsters and tipsy drivers has paid off, Chief George A. Dane announced Wednesday, as he vowed to use every means within his power to make this town the safest place in the commonwealth to live.

Last year's heavy auto-accident death-toll of eight persons has been shaved to one death in the first six months of 1951 and the Chief said the results are due in great part to the campaign being waged by the Andover police.

Since Jan. 1 of this year, 55 autoists have been summoned into court for speeding; five for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and two for operating to endanger.

Chief Dane has instructed all police officers to be on the alert for motor vehicle violations in this municipality. The Chief promised a relentless continuance of this safety crusade. He said that if but one life is saved his purpose will have been more than justified.

the oft repeated phrase - "Millions for Defense but Not One Cent for Tribute."

Like a voice in the wilderness was the faint warning by Police Chief George A. Dane that speedsters, tipsy drivers and persons having illegal fireworks would be prosecuted to the limit of the law.

Old Andover residents almost wished that a cannon would be shot off in the middle of Main st. just to let the world know that this once proud municipality is still the rollicking son of Yankee Doodle Dandy.

Back In Andover

was released for convalescence at his Andover home.

"Johnny" Erving has won the fight to live. He now faces a second fight—the fight to get along and to provide for himself and family.

He has valuable equipment and training. In 1949, he was graduated from Michigan state college with a degree in hotel and restaurant management. He later managed Thompson's Spa in Boston and was salesman for a wholesale food company. He wants to establish himself in some type of employment which will make use of these experiences.

Medical authorities say it will be two years before he is restored to his maximum recovery. Right now he gets around in limited fashion on crutches. He feels he could satisfactorily perform employment of a supervisory capacity related to restaurant work, or where the duties could be performed by mail or telephone with limited personal calls being necessary.

John Erving faces the future with the same stout heart that marked his nine month's toe-to-toe-struggle with one of the worst disease known to mankind. He won the first fight. He's confident he will win the second battle.

Ideas on how he can accomplish this end will be gratefully received by him and family.

Rev. Roy E. Nelson Jr., the pastor, will preach during the month on the following subjects.

July 1, "A Lesson From the Mayflower For America Today."

July 8, "Quietness and Confidence Amidst Discord and Confusion."

July 15, "The Abodes of God."

July 22, "God's Garden."

July 29, "The Right Way to Serve God."

Zoning Law Change Petition Rejected

Woodworth, a neighbor, who Mr. Stulgis said has erected a $75,000 home close by, who favored the zoning change. In answer to a question, Mr. Stulgis said the new place of business would close each night at 8 o'clock.

John M. McKenzie read a letter of nostalgic content which favored the petition.

Rejection Recommended

It was then brought to light that the Andover Zoning board had recommended the petition be rejected because: (1) surrounding property values would suffer; (2) such would contribute to the existing traffic hazards; (3) it would create dangers to children using Poor st.; (4) it would adversely effect parking facilities in that neighborhood; (5) there was ample property in the neighborhood to serve the needs of the residents.

Wallace E. Brimer spoke against the practice of holding special town meetings. He said that few people showed up for them and they were not representative of the townsfolk. He said he would vote against favorable action on the petition.

Fred E. Cheever explained why it was necessary to hold the special town meeting on this matter and he said that time was not allowed to consider it at the regular town meeting. Selectman because I know the youngsters will enjoy delicious, healthful dairy products at our summer home. You can be sure, too. Hood will deliver to your summer home. Just call H. P. Hood & Sons, Enterprise 5713

THERE'S A SONG IN MY HEART

Roy E. Hardy said it was impossible to get this article into the regular town meeting.

Favors Petition

James R. Mosher, who said he was one of the original inhabitants of Shawsheen Village spoke in favor of the petition. He said that such a store offered a great convenience to the persons living there.

It was voted to decide the issue on written ballots. After about one hour's discussion, the votes were cast and the petition was lost in that it failed to carry by a two-thirds majority.

During the controversy before the voting, Atty. Stulgis informed that 600 cards had been addressed to Shawsheen residents urging them to be present at the special town meeting. He interpreted the fact that only a few showed up to the conclusion that there was little if any opposition to the petition. Wallace E. Brimer gave a different interpretation to this failure of the Shawsheen residents to show up and said to him it indicated that special town meetings were not advisable in that they were not truly representative of the feelings of the townsfolk in that there were not enough of them on hand to ballot on any important matter.

The meeting adjourned less than 90 minutes after it had been called to order in Memorial auditorium.

The petitioner, with her late sisters, has conducted a bakery store and food shop at that location for the past twenty years. She now has a chance to sell the property to a Mr. McNeil, who desires to operate the bakery as well as a soda spa, lunch counter and grocery store.

ACCEPTED AT ADVANCED SCHOOLS

Nancy Eastham, Dorothy Fleming, Carole Higgins, Joan Lamprey and Elizabeth Sawyer, who will attend Abbot academy. George Benedict will attend Pomfret school. Robin Rowland will attend Brooks school. John Shaw will attend Proctor academy. Sully Vinciguerra will attend Phillips academy.

Chief Warns Swimmers Of Dangers

Not a single drowning accident marred the Andover bathing and swimming record in 1950, Chief George A. Dane said Wednesday, as he advised town residents to use the greatest caution during the vacation period which lies ahead.

Chief Dane said that old and young, good swimmers and non-swimmers, are equally vulnerable to death by swimming, as indicated by the records.

He said that swimming is an excellent recreation and should be kept as such. It is not an occasion for "horseplay" or tricks, he said, as he advised that most deaths are due to swimmers who exceed their natatorial abilities or non-swimmers, whose courage is greater than their intelligence.

Warns Swimmers Dangers

A single drowning accident in the Andover bathing and swimming record in 1950, Chief A. Dane said Wednesday, advised town residents to exercise the greatest caution during the period which lies ahead. Dane said that old and young swimmers and non-swimmers, are equally vulnerable by swimming, as indicated by records. He said that swimming is an excellent recreation and should be encouraged. It is not an occasion for "play" or tricks, he said, advised that most deaths are swimmers who exceed their abilities or non-swimmers whose courage is greater than their intelligence.

greatly improved the road leading to Pomp's Pond with a coating of tar. This hard surface road eliminates much of the dust which in past years discouraged motorists. The Bath house has been freshly painted inside and out and this adds greatly to the cleanliness of the dressing rooms. The water in the pond is in excellent condition. There are no weeds in the pond, a factor which in past years has plagued both the staff and the bathers.

Rules have been posted on the bulletin boards and the guards request that the bathers read these rules and try to obey them. The rules have been set up to insure the utmost safety for all the bathers.

The recreation committee has set the hours during which the pond will be open as follows. From 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Before or after those hours the pond will be closed and no one will be allowed in the water or on the beach of the pond.

Swimming Hazards

Vacation time is here again. Schools are closed and the arrival of hot weather naturally turns the thoughts of the younger fry to the nearest pond or stream for fun, frolic and relief from the heat.

At the same time the combination of school vacations and summer weather prompts safety officials to issue their annual advice about the hazards that go with swimming and offer suggestions to prevent accidents.

Swimming is great fun as well as a wholesome form of body-building exercise, but it has its attendant dangers as safety records show.

To overcome these hazards some simple rules are offered which, if heeded, should cut down the large number of swimming accidents that occur each year during July and August.

The first is, never swim alone. The reason is obvious, for if other swimmers are near it means that there is help at hand in the event it is needed.

Another is, never dive into unfamiliar waters. Here is a precaution that should be carefully observed to avoid the danger of striking a rock or submerged log that may be hidden just below the surface and which might cause a swimmer to be knocked unconscious.

These are but two of the dangers which exact their toll in lives each year from those who have little regard for personal safety while swimming.

Here in Andover we have Pomp's swimming beach open every day in charge of a staff of competent life guards. Several activities are arranged in connection with the aquatic program to make it interesting for those who go there to relax and cool off.

Classes in swimming, diving, first aid and rescue work are held for various group ages, to which are added such entertaining features as corn and weenie roasts, story-telling and singing around campfires.

Each year the Andover Recreation committee in charge of the beach continues to improve the facilities there for the pleasure and comfort of patrons so that it should draw a large number of townspeople who can enjoy the advantage of its safety and entertainment features not found in many other swimming spots within miles of here.

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.—Benjamin Disraeli.

Prescription Problems

There are certain powdered drugs which become moist when thoroughly mixed with one another. Obviously, then, when a prescription calls for two such substances to be thoroughly mixed to form a dry powder, the pharmacist is faced with a special compounding problem.

Another similar problem the pharmacist is often confronted with is that of combining oil and water to form a uniform liquid.

Without going into the technical details involved, your pharmacist can and does solve these and similar prescription problems every day. Years of training and a continual study of the latest developments in the field of pharmacy make your pharmacist competent to compound whatever prescriptions your physician may write. You may entrust your prescription to your pharmacist with complete confidence.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG — By John Fisher

Turkey Is Great Bulwark For Free Nations Vs. Reds

The critical situation in Iran, reports of an increase in the Bulgarian army and possible Russian moves to counteract American pressure on Red China have stimulated the West to hasten entry of Turkey and Greece in the mutual defense system.

During the past few days preparatory consultations were held between General Eisenhower's staff and Turkish and Greek military chiefs on the best means of integrating the two nations in the North Atlantic treaty organization.

The final decision is not expected until August. The pair may become full-fledged members or keystones in a new Mediterranean pact.

Previously the Scandinavian countries, together with Britain and France, have been reluctant to include the Balkan states in the Atlantic bastion. Exposed Norway, for example, hesitated to promise troops to help repel Bulgarians from distant Turkey. London and Paris, bound by treaty to support Ankara if attacked, thought this pledge was sufficient guarantee.

Washington, however, has lately favored NATO membership for Turkey and Greece. Last month a delegation of Ankara statesmen at Strasbourg demanded full partnership in the collective security system.

Turkish borders touch Russia, Iran, Bulgaria and Iraq—each a war danger spot. The delegates warned the Allies that the fall of their country could mean the immediate loss of the Middle East with its oil, the blockade of Europe's lifeline to Asia, the outflanking of Greece and Yugoslavia and Russian armed forces on the Italian frontier.

Turkey Deserves Recognition As Power

Security is not the only reason why Ankara wants to be an equal partner in the protection of Europe. Pride is a factor. Because Turkey has one of the best armies on the continent, her statesmen argue that this strength entitles her to be considered a world power.

The Turks are super-sensitive over outside control. London at one period hinted that Turkish land forces be placed under the British Middle East command. But Ankara rejected the suggestion, pointing out that the only foreign command it would accept would be the U. S. A.—as in Korea.

Even Americans are not entirely trusted by our suspicious friends. American officials distributing aid have discovered that their residences had been ransacked by the police.

Such wariness is understandable in a nation encircled by deadly enemies and slowly emerging from the social revolution initiated in 1923 by Mustafa Kemal Ataturk. Modernization was continued by the current president, Celal Bayer, Kemal's former economic adviser, who, as the result of a free election last year, ousted from power the Peoples' Party that had arbitrarily ruled for a quarter of a century.

Military and Other Budget Needs High

Seven of every ten Turks are peasants. Until recently agriculture was very primitive. The government with the aid of American ECA funds has distributed tractors, provided better seed and taught improved fruit packaging methods. But the rapid shift to mechanized farming in some areas has created temporary unemployment among share-croppers.

The expense of modernizing agriculture is a load on the comparatively poor country. Almost half of the national budget is required to maintain the highly efficient army.

A new financial burden is the support of 120,000 Bulgarian refugees of Turkish descent, who have been expelled by the communist government of Bulgaria. The fugitives, mostly farmers, were forced to leave their livestock and tools. Marshall Plan funds will be used to rehabilitate the outcasts on free lands donated by the state.

The brutal expulsion has aroused bad blood between Turkey and Bulgaria. Crews of Turkish ships have been refused landing permits in Bulgarian ports. Turkey also watches with mistrust the calling up of Bulgarian military reserves and the extension of service of Bulgarian troops that were to be demobilized on May 1. Border incidents by frontier guards have been reported.

The alert Turks understand that were it not for the possibility of kindling World War III, the Russians would seize the Bosphorus, one of the two Soviet outlets to European waters. The Turks stood firmly against their giant neighbor in 1945 when Moscow tried to compel them to give up the border regions of Kars and Ardahan.

Ankara Vigorously Opposes Communism

But Ankara has tried not to offer Stalin an excuse for intervention. It has squelched minor intrigues by hotheads who demanded the liberation of Turks in the Russian Caucasus, Turkestan and Azerbaijan.

The communist party is outlawed. The police keep tabs on known Russophiles.

Unlike many deluded nations, Turkey has never been fooled by the phony peace movements run by Reds. Last year a set of duped liberals, fellow travelers and secret communists organized the Peace Society and campaigned against sending troops to Korea. The police charged the leaders with "incitement to mutiny" and clapped them in jail.

ADEQUATE ELECTRIC SERVICE ENTRANCE—The modern home requires a 3-wire service of large enough size to carry as much electricity as you may need at any time. This means your home will not be limited in its ability to accommodate an electric range, water heater, refrigerator, automatic washer or clothes dryer... now or in the future.

BRANCH CIRCUITS—You should have enough circuits having wires large enough to carry electricity at full power from the Service Entrance to your electric lights, appliances and equipment. Plus spare terminals which make the installation of future equipment simple and inexpensive.

CONVENIENCE OUTLETS, LIGHTS & SWITCHES—You should have enough, and in the proper places, to enable you to add beauty to your home indoors and out. And to permit flexibility in your arrangement of furniture and lamps and for the convenient use of all your electrical equipment. So remember...

Boy Thanks Legion For Opportunity

James J. Murray, an Andover boy now attending Boys' State at Amherst, through the sponsorship of the local post, American Legion, conveyed his gratitude for the opportunity given him in a letter to the ANDOVER TOWNSMAN. His letter follows:

Dear Editor:
Through your paper I would like to express my thanks to the American Legion of Andover, for giving me the wonderful opportunity to attend Boys' State at Amherst.

We are having a most enjoyable time here as well as one well worth while. We are learning what good government is and how other municipalities conduct their businesses and elections. It is very educational and interesting. I am proud to come from a town like Andover for when comparing it with others I still think it is tops.

In conjunction with these meetings we are holding elections, sports and other festivities which take up every minute of the day from 6:30 a. m. to 10 p. m. So you can see what a busy week we are having.

Thank you for anything you may print to let the people of Andover know what the American Legion is doing in sending a boy to Boys' State each year.

Respectfully,
James J. Murray

Walker Clinic Discontinued After 15 Years Service

The Walker Memorial Clinic in Lawrence will discontinue service, effective June 30, 1951.

The board of incorporators met Monday night at the Clinic offices on Methuen street and voted this action. They said the development of voluntary insurance plans, federal and state health programs and the advent of additional outpatient medical and hospital facilities in the community reduced the necessity for the services provided by the Clinic.

The Clinic was established 15 years ago and since that time admitted 15,000 patients and rendered 140,000 treatments.

The late Dr. William Dacre Walker of Andover was one of the original founders of the Clinic and it was his name that later identified this institution of care to the medically indigent.

Tel. Co. Promises Extended Area Service Will Be Ready In 1951

Telephone toll calls from Andover to the Lawrence area will be a thing of the past by the end of 1951, Frank P. Desmond, manager of the Lawrence district office, announced Thursday.

SERVICE STATION

416 No. Main St. Shawsheen

He said the necessary study has been completed as regards the changeover and the order has been placed for new equipment, which will be used in the extended area service. The new system will be inaugurated at a substantial cost to the telephone company. Circuits used in the Andover office for Lawrence calls will be increased from 25 to 60. It is anticipated that the holding or usage time will be boosted between 200 and 300 percent when the new system goes into effect. This increase in usage is expected because it is believed telephone conversations will be lengthened when the toll rate is eliminated.

The extended area service will eliminate the present ten cent toll charge for calls between Andover and Lawrence. Andover telephone users will pay for their service at the existing Lawrence rates.

Andover phone users registered 78 per cent approval of the extended area service in a poll of opinion conducted by the telephone a short while ago.

Telephone company officials said that they are anxious to place the extended area service into operation as scheduled and only demands by the defense effort will cause any delay.

Andover Lieut. Awarded Bronze Star For Heroism

1st Lieut. Charles W. Hayward, 103 Salem st., has been awarded the Bronze Star medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in Korea.

He is a member of the 9th Inf. Regiment of the Second Division and distinguished himself in fighting near Pukwon in November.

The citation read in part: "Lieutenant Hayward, as a leader of a tank platoon, volunteered his and another tank from his platoon to escort a jeep and trailer loaded with wounded to pass through an enemy roadblock. While fording a river, the jeep became mired in a hole. Lt. Hayward dismounted from his tank, waded to the stalled jeep with a cable, and pulled the jeep out with his tank. This action assured the wounded of prompt medical care."

Andover Handtub Wins First Prize At Newbury

The Andover Handtub association copped first prize in the year's initial competition on Saturday when the H. Bradford Lewis tossed a stream of 183 feet 6 and three quarter inches to the delight of 4,500 spectators gathered for the Oldtown Jamboree in Newbury. With the honor went the prize of $150 in cash.

The association, organized last year, was heartened by the year's first competition which saw its tub showing the way to all contestants in the second class division. In competition six times last year the H. Bradford Lewis won but one first prize at the muster held in Essex.

The handtub was obtained from the H. Bradford Lewis wool shop in Lawrence in 1950. It was built in 1850 by the Howard-Davis company and is considered one of the oldest still in operation. It was reconditioned by Andover firemen and is now considered to be in as good shape as it was when pumping streams for fire protection a century ago.

Making the trip from Andover and competing in the muster were Henry Pomeroy, foreman, James Deymond, Joseph Gaudette, John Cole, Gordon Coutts, Frank Buchan, Charles Gray, Charles Regan, Norman Auchterlonie, George Portier, Michael Mullaney, Ralph Greenwood, Edward Nolin, Timothy Daley, Charles Howe, Russell Thornton, Harold Wood, Alfred Duke, Earl Summer, Earl Summer Jr., Cliff Thompson, Lincoln Sharpe.

The association urges all men in Andover, who have an interest in musters, to join this group. They promise many hours of competitive pleasure and social entertainment.

Blue-eyed blondes are always popular, but the ones who really go places are those with the greenbacks.
